Celia Haddon was the Daily Telegraph pet agony aunt whose knowledgeable yet sentimental column delighted cat lovers. She has sold somewhere between one to two million books and is an author recognised by bookshops and the general public. Her manual One Hundred Ways for a Cat to Train its Human has sold more than a quarter of a million copies so far and her One Hundred Secret Thoughts Cats have about their Humans has sold 147,000. A cat behaviour practitioner with the Centre of Applied Pet Ethology, she has a B Sc. in applied animal behaviour.

No cat is ugly! The kitty's photograph that they used on the front cover is adorable. The only problem I had with the people in the book were that they let their cats go outside.....even when they know there are dangers in the fields around their house. My cats are all indoor kitties....and seem to have no problems whatsoever with being kept inside. All in all.....it was a sweet book of winning over a cats affections. You have to work on it....it can be done.

Bought this for my mom, who is a connoisseur of fine animal stories, and usually she is a stern critic. She hasn't stopped talking about this book, quoting snippets here and there, and recounting stories ever since. She now is hounding me to read it, too! She says it is a remarkable book, written by someone who is a true animal lover. I'm now going to have to read it!

Very touching story

I'm still in the process of reading this but it is an adorable, touching book. I'm very

FIRSTLY, I LOVE TORTOISESHELL CATS IN ALL COLORS, SHAPES, SIZES AND AGES. This book was wonderful! I could not put it down. Great writing and story. I will be looking for more books by Celia Haddon. Highly recommend this book to all cat lovers! You won't be disappointed! Buy it soon!

I enjoyed reading this story. What a lucky cat Tilly is to have someone with patience bring her home! This story will leave you feeling good, especially if you love cats.

I tell you one thing. This book is not just about how someone once adopted a cat. Its about being knocked down in and by life and finding strength and love to carrying on. Be it feline or human, everyone needs someone to be kind to then sometimes and, maybe, that little piece of kindness will save a life.

It's good, but there are sad parts that had me depressed for a bit.
