The Horoscope In Manifestation: Psychology And Prediction

Synopsis

Bridging the apparent gap between psychological and predictive astrology is not easy, and many astrologers feel they must polarise and espouse one while rejecting the other. The seminars in this innovative volume explore the psychological dynamics which accompany concrete events, focusing on the important psychological model of the complex as both a generator of individual behaviour and an archetypal image of individual fate. This book offers profound insights into the ways in which inner and outer reality coincide and reflect each other.

I found this seminar on transits and progressions to be very helpful. In various sessions Greene leads her students towards an appreciation of the purpose of an individual's life by showing them how planetary transits, secondary progressions and solar-arc progressions can offer the astrologer a sense of the unfolding destiny at work in a client's life. In doing this Greene balances general understandings with specific insights into the actual charts of participants. In these sessions she shows herself to be a true master of this pedagogical technique.

Liz Green is undoubtedly a very profound and insightful astrologer. However, after buying 3 books from her, I do remain confronted by the lack of structure and basic pedagogical approach which make absorbing & retaining the content of her books quite challenging indeed. The transcription of workshops clearly does not cut it for me.

Everything went ok with the supplier. Excellent product, delivered on time. Thanks!

Liz Greene is, in my opinion, one of the best of the authors writing about psychological astrology. This book consists of two seminars originally given in May 1996 as part of a course run by the Centre for Psychological Astrology in London. The first seminar is about complexes and the way we project qualities we do not recognise onto other people. These are all linked to myth as a way of understanding what is going on in the psyche. The second seminar is about transits and progressions and the way they manifest in people's lives. This part of the book is particularly interesting reading it nearly twenty years later as it examines transits and progressions in the birth charts of British political leaders at the time - a year before the 1997 General Election. The analysis by Liz Greene herself and by the seminar audience is uncannily accurate in the light of later events which were obviously unknown to the participants at the time. I found this book fascinating reading and it can be read and understood by anyone with a basic knowledge of astrology and it may help the reader to understand what is going on in their own lives.
