"The New Testament of Jesus Christ is a message of faith, hope and love. It is called the Good News. My friend and colleague Kris Vallotton is one of the best in the prophetic community to help shape, teach and model these 'Good News Prophets.' Thanks for honoring my generation's pioneering work and picking up the baton and carrying it forth!"--Dr. James Goll, founder, Encounters Network, Prayer Storm and GET eSchool; author, The Seer, The Lifestyle of a Prophet, Praying for Israel's Destiny and many more

"I love this book! As a person passionate to see the most desired gift in the New Testament (see 1 Corinthians 14:1) flourish all over the world, I would recommend this book wholesale. It clearly and biblically describes how to function in the New Testament gift of prophecy and articulates various kinds of biblical prophets. If one heeds its principles, it will give greater understanding and produce higher levels of maturity in prophetic ministry. 'I wish that all the Lord's people were prophets' (Numbers 11:29 niv) and that they all read Kris Vallotton's great book School of the Prophets."--Stacey Campbell, founder, Canadian Prophetic Council; author, Ecstatic Prophecy

"Kris Vallotton's book reminds us that the heart of prophecy should be God's heart to build up, encourage and speak life. God sees the greatness over our lives, and our desire should be to see each other as He does. Kris goes through strategic and important teaching about prophecy versus the office of prophet, specifically in the context of the Church. I highly recommend this book and pray that it helps you to understand the prophetic and to 'call the gold' out of those around you. Our whole family has been uplifted in a powerful way through our deep friendship with this amazing man."--Heidi Baker, Ph.D.; co-founder and director, Iris Global

I have worn out my highlighters on this book! As a pastor who has studied the prophetic for years, this is the most balanced teaching on the prophetic I have ever read! Often the most misunderstood of the five fold ministry (many times for good reason and brought upon themselves), the prophet is often the black sheep. This book brings amazing clarity, instruction, accountability, and subsequently freedom to those operating under this mantle. A MUST READ for any pastor desiring to understand the prophet...and as a pastor myself, this would be a REQUIRED read for anyone functioning or learning to function as a prophet within my sphere of influence.

Refreshing and Thought-provoking For years I have studied, engaged in, and activated others in the prophetic. Doing so gave me the opportunity to learn numerous hard lessons regarding this potent and powerful administration. Therefore, I am NOT easily impressed by much that is written on the prophetic today. Unfortunately much is verbatim and repetitive in which authors do not present new ideas, concepts, and fresh perspectives within this arena. HOWEVER, Kris Vallotton has impressed me as he intertwines Personal experiences, Biblically-supported principles, and clear passion for Prophets and Prophetic people in this text for the sole purpose of helping many navigate this administration, which is by and large still a mystery to many within God's Body. This text in my opinion is one worthy of study, contemplation, and reading time and time again, for within its pages is wisdom from someone who has clearly made many mistakes and experienced many triumphs in this arena. As such, I encourage prophetic people both young and old to consider the perspective of this respected prophet and teacher. You will NOT be disappointed

This is a well written book on the subject. The author is up front in that he understands there are various expressions of prophetic ministry around today. He clearly states this by stating he is simply sharing insights he has personally learned and that he wanted to make it clear this was not the final word on prophets or prophetesses, nor is it the only view on the subject that people should embrace. He does however begin to distinguish how New Covenant Prophets function compared to Old Covenant Prophets. This distinction is what makes this book such a gem. (This does not mean we cannot learn or value some qualities of Old Covenant Prophets, it simply means there is a New Covenant now that is founded upon better promises and a better way of doing things.) What many fail to realize surrounding this subject is the different ages or eras in the Biblical timeline. Let me explain this so you understand why the author's book is so important for our day. In Jesus' day, He was born into a time where, by the end of his generation, the Old Covenant was going to be made obsolete. This Old Covenant age then was disappearing (Heb 8:13) and Jesus made it clear that the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem would be one of the final signs this Old Covenant was done away with for good, as He ushered in the New Covenant based upon what He was calling the "Kingdom of God" (God's rule with man, see Luke 12:32). We further see in the pages of Scripture and history that He was teaching a new way of understanding God and life. He was bringing a Kingdom to a world devoid of understanding the nature of God and His will for the earth and into a world where a dysfunctional covenant was about to be removed (Dysfunctional because of people not because of God). This is why he talked so much about the Kingdom of God and how it would be established in His generation and why He and his followers were to proclaim it was "at hand" (Mark 1:15). We know this because Jesus continually taught on the Kingdom reality and He would say things like, "You have heard it said, but I tell you," or "Be careful of the reasoning of the religious leaders" or "The Kingdom of Heaven is like" or "Truly some of you standing here will not taste death until you see the Son of Man coming into His Kingdom" or "It is the Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom." This understanding of the transition out of the Old Covenant and into the New is the very foundation upon which Jesus was building a people of God who would function in different gifts and offices, which brings us to the New Covenant Prophet. It is here where the author so brilliantly begins to give insight into the core values of the Kingdom that launch a person called to be a prophet or prophetess into a better understanding of how they are to function and operate in this New Covenant age. There are countless little points the author makes that will help people discern their callings, spheres of influence, the diversity of prophets, the difference between prophets and people who simply give prophecy and other topics that bring you into a deeper understanding of prophetic ministry. So it is with this understanding that I highly recommend this book and just as the author has stated, I don't need this to be the definitive work on the subject but I do think it is a highly valuable book that will give people great insight and context surrounding the subject. It will empower and help mature prophetic communities, while adding to the growing understanding of the New Covenant prophetic ministry that is powerfully changing the world through those who embrace it.

Kris Vallotton has written an incredible book for those called to the office of a prophet, and also those with a desire to function in higher level prophetic ministry. This book is unlike any other book out there on the subject of the prophetic in that it isn't an explanation of how the gift works, but an injection of core values that should shape how a new covenant prophet should function. Deviating from the prophetic models of the past that focus on doom and gloom, Kris paints a powerful picture of what a prophet should look like: a hope bearer. We're not called as prophets to become a commentary on the evil going on in the world, but instead we're called to gaze into heaven, perceive the blessings of God, and then release them into the most dire and hopeless of situations. This book is one of a kind and has changed my life, I highly recommend that you buy it and add it to your personal library.
