Poking around the side streets of downtown Halifax, canoeing in Kejimikujik National Park, sampling rappie pie along the Acadian Coast, and surfing the waves of Lawrencetown Beach—Andrew Hempstead has done all of this and more. As a professional travel writer, Andrew spends as much time as possible out on the road. During his travels, he experiences the many and varied delights of Nova Scotia the same way his readers do. Since the early 1990s, Andrew has authored and updated more than 60 guidebooks, and supplied content for regional and national clients like Expedia and KLM. His photography has appeared in a wide variety of media, ranging from international golf magazines to a Ripley's Believe it or Not! Museum. Andrew and his wife Dianne also own Summerthought Publishing, a Canadian regional publisher of nonfiction books. He is a member of The Diners Club® World's 50 Best Restaurants Academy. Andrew has also spoken on travel writing to a national audience and has contributed to a university-level travel writing textbook.

This was a thorough and easy to use guide, and I highly recommend it to those planning a trip to Nova Scotia. I enjoyed the conversational tone of the book. In future editions, though, I hope the author would beef up his recommendations for lodging and restaurants. The book is adequate in this regard now, but it would have been helpful if a few other options were listed. More restaurant recommendations would have been particularly nice, but I realize that restaurants have a way of coming and going, which would mean the guide's information runs the risk then of becoming dated.

A comprehensive guide with interesting and accurate information, easy to carry. Recommended.

Book exceeded my expectation. Thanks so much!
